Fall '12—Spring '13

From The Director's Chair

It is with pleasure that I highlight the year in review of Stockton's Hospitality & Tourism Management Studies program for academic year 2012/13. As you read on, you will see how we enjoyed another active, busy and productive year.

Our program graduated 22 students in the fall 2012 commencement held on December 16, 2012. Spring commencement was May 11th and we welcomed another 29 students to the Stockton Alumni Association!

The fall semester also marked the initiation of the Stockton/Cornell agreement signed in the fall of 2011. The purpose of this agreement is to enhance opportunities for Cornell students in their Hotel Administration program and for Stockton students in our Hospitality and Tourism Management program. The first two Cornell students, Alex Sherman and Gavin Knapp arrived to Stockton in the summer living on campus and securing employment with Revel Entertainment. By the fall these two exemplary students were enrolled in Stockton's Introduction to Gaming Industry Management course taught by our new full time faculty member and industry veteran Jane Bokunewicz and working full time at Revel. Alex and Gavin earned credit for their work experience and their coursework at Stockton and have could not have been better representatives of both programs. In the spirit of reciprocation, Dr. Izzy Posner and I were fortunate enough to take four students to Cornell in October. These students were able to meet with the Steve Carvell, Associate Dean of Cornell's School of Hotel Administration, tour and stay at the Statler Hotel, participate in a class and attend a leadership lecture seminar presented by Gerald Lawless, President & Group CEO Jumeriah Group.

On September 12, 2012 at the Levenson Institute for Gaming, Hospitality & Tourism (LIGHT) Advisory Board Meeting, the family of the late casino gaming executive, Dennis Gomes, officially signed an agreement that would endow a scholarship dedicated to support Hospitality students at Stockton. In May, Stockton's Scholarship Committee awarded the first scholarship to a deserving HTMS student in the amount of $1,000.

Also in October, the newly formed chapter of The National Society for Minorities in Hospitality (NSMH) hosted a regional conference at Stockton Seaview. In attendance were students representing top Hospitality Management programs in the country along with some of the biggest hospitality employers including ARAMARK, Hershey Entertainment & Resorts, Hilton Worldwide, Hyatt Hotels & Resorts, Marriott International, and Sodexo.

The National Society for Minorities in Hospitality (NSMH) is a wonderful opportunity for all students to expand their network of professional associates by meeting students from many different cultures and many different colleges across the US.

November marks the time of year that the HTMS Society takes the show on the road to represent the HTMS program at the International Hotel Motel Show in New York City. Many HTMS students make the trip over the three-day show to engage in the industry trade, educational forums and the annual National Honor Society Breakfast hosted by Marriott for students in Hospitality Management programs across the country.

On November 14, 2012, the Cooperative Education class hosted an Alumni Speaker Panel. This panel was made up of 6 esteemed HTMS Alumni representing multiple aspects of the hospitality industry. The office of Alumni relations supported the event by hosting a refreshment networking session before the event. Students from the entire program were encouraged to attend. The feedback was very positive and the graduating seniors appreciated hearing from professionals that were in the seats not so long ago.

In January, our own adjunct faculty instructor, Jon Rosky was awarded the Faculty Community Engagement Award during the kick off of Stockton's 9th Annual Martin Luther King, Jr. Day of Service. Each year Jon participates in the construction of several osprey nests. He provides the materials and helps students in the actual construction as part of an effort to help the local osprey population.

On the left, Jonathan Rosky, an adjunct instructor in the Hospitality and Tourism Management Studies program, is awarded the Faculty Community Engagement Award by Harvey Kesselman, Provost and Executive Vice President.

During the spring semester of 2013 the HTMS program underwent a 5-year program review. This internal process is designed to reflect on the past, present and future of the program. It addresses the ten overriding tenets of the program including:

- History, development and expectations of the program;
- Demand for the program as major;

- Demand for the program as a service program;
- Quality of program inputs and processes;
- Quality of program outcomes;
- Size, scope and productivity of the program;
- Revenue and other resources generated by the program;
- Costs and other expenses associated with the program;
- Impact, justification and overall essentiality of the program;
- Opportunity and threat analysis of the program

An external reviewer spent time of campus talking with students, faculty and administration in order to provide an outside perspective for our program as we go forward. The process has allowed us to reflect on our program, the courses and processes in order for us to be better and stronger in terms of curriculum, student input and assessment.

Spring is also scholarship season and this year the HTMS program has directly benefited from increased fundraising efforts by the Greater Atlantic City Concierge Association. After their successful February Wine Tasting/Art Show fundraiser, they were able to award 10 HTMS students over $7000 in scholarships in April. Our HTMS student scholarship winners were invited to receive their awards at the Annual Atlantic City Host Awards ceremony. Presented each year during National Travel and Tourism Week, the Host Awards salute and encourage outstanding customer service by employees in the tourism, hospitality and retail industries who contribute to Atlantic City's success as a friendly, world-class destination. Two Stockton Alumni, Lauren Finneran, Marriott Fairway Villas and Alvin Pasaqui, Borgata Retail, were recipients of a Host Award this year for excellent customer service, making us proud for sure!

In addition, the Atlantic City Hotel and Lodging Association (ACHLA) provided 5 students with scholarships. These award winners were invited to their annual luncheon at Borgata in April to receive their awards.

Award winners Megan Davies and Sofia Sansweet.

As the HTMS program grows so does the Cooperative Education opportunity. This spring 30 students were enrolled in two sections of HTMS 4960 Cooperative Education. Our own Stockton Seaview provided 5 of those employment opportunities for students to learn, work and travel to other Dolce hotel properties. Coop class is held at Stockton Seaview and is designed to provide a structured educational strategy integrating classroom studies with learning through productive work experiences in the Hospitality and Tourism industry.

The HTMS program is excited to introduce a new course offering this fall called Advanced Food and Beverage Management. This course will be a hands on experience at the Stockton Seaview designed to teach student's food preparation and restaurant operations skills.

As you read on, you will see that spring 2013 also included Dr. Michael Scales Event Management class fundraiser dinner and our annual Eta Sigma Delta Honor Society induction ceremony.

None of this would be possible without our amazing students, dedicated faculty and support from Stockton administration for all our efforts.

Have a safe productive summer.

Director, HTMS

For Last Day, Co-Op Steps Out

On May 1st Dr. Scales' Co-op class took a tour of the Marriott Fairway Villas in Galloway Township, NJ. The group was hosted by an employee of the Villas, Slone Portner, who hosted the event. The General Manager and the Operations Manager showed the group around the property while explaining how the timeshare property works. During the tour, the group visited the Resort center which contains the Owners Lounge, Activity Center, Front Desk, Concierge, Business Center, and an Arcade. They also saw the Indoor Pool, the Fitness Center, the Spa and a Villa.

The class was very eager to see the Marriott Timeshare property because our class had been taught at the Stockton Seaview Resort all semester long, which is an adjacent property that shares many of its amenities. We had heard about the property and what it has to offer but few had actually seen it. The students were interested in learning how the timeshare property worked compared to a full service hotel. They asked questions about destination points and how guests could exchange their vacations for different Marriott properties. The day ended with a beautiful lunch spread and some final questions for both managers. It was a beautiful day and a beautiful tour and hopefully Stockton will continue to grow its relationship with the close by property.

On Wednesday April 3rd, a semester-long project came together for the students of Dr. Scales' Events Planning and Catering Management class at the Richard Stockton College of NJ. The class, comprised of Hospitality and Tourism Management students, had been planning the Restore the Shore themed dinner to benefit victims of Hurricane Sandy through the American Red Cross since January. They customized every detail of the night, from the creative five-course menu to the décor and the entertainment that would give the guests a feel of the Jersey boardwalk at summertime. The Boardwalk themed menu included a mini corn dog appetizer, crabmeat salad, BBQ chicken and waffles with ice cream for dessert.

They gathered over 50 spectacular items for the auction component of the event. Some of the most sought-after prizes from the auction included overnight stays at multiple Atlantic City hotel properties, restaurant gift cards, themed gift baskets and the ultimate prize, a Dusk nightclub gift certificate. The students raised over $2,500 to donate to the Red Cross. Not only did the event help raise money to benefit locals who were affected by Hurricane Sandy, but it also gave the students valuable learning experience in the field of catering and events planning. Students in the class will also act as Ambassadors at the Stockton Scholarship Gala and visited the Atlantic City Convention Center, The Carriage House, and Citizens Bank Park in Philadelphia.

Bandos Island Resort

Professor Joe Lema was awarded a Fulbright Scholar grant to the Republic of Maldives where he spent the spring and summer terms researching, lecturing, and travelling throughout South, Central and East Asia. Located along the equator in the Indian Ocean, southwest of Sri Lanka and India the archipelago nation of the Maldives is composed of 1,190 islands, with a double chain of 26 atolls and the highest concentration of luxury resorts in the world that features a “one island, one resort” concept.

Through funds appropriated by the U.S. Congress, the Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs of the U.S. Department of State oversees the program that includes over 150 countries. The purpose of the Fulbright program is to increase mutual understanding and to enrich the educational, political, economic, social and cultural lives of countries around the world.

Faculty Spotlight

Before joining Stockton, Jane Bokunewicz was an Assistant Professor in the Hospitality Program at Drexel University teaching casino and resort management classes. She has also worked as a gaming industry consultant specializing in organizational structure, staffing, training and hiring. Prior to joining academia Jane enjoyed a 22-year career in the Atlantic City Casino Industry. Upon graduating from Indiana University of Pennsylvania with a BS in Business Administration, she began her career as an Information Technology Professional at Playboy Casino. She later joined the Tropicana and became the Director of Management Information Systems. After earning an MBA from Monmouth College, Jane was promoted to Vice President of Administration. She has worked as a Vice President at the Tropicana for 12 years until she joined Drexel in 2006. Jane is a PhD candidate in Culture and Communication at Drexel and lead author of the text Casino Gaming Technology, Pearson Prentice Hall, 2011.

As the Vice President Administration at Tropicana, Jane oversaw the departments of Facilities Management, Security, Human Resources, Purchasing and Capital Renovation Projects. She was part of the executive team that opened The Quarter, an upscale Dining, Entertainment, and Retail complex that helped to transform Tropicana from a day trip slot market, to a contemporary destination resort with first class restaurants and non-gaming attractions. Jane has a third degree black belt in the marshal art of Tang Soo Do Karate. She resides in Galloway Township with her husband Ron and has one son Adam who is attending Boston Conservatory studying musical theater.

Dine-Around

By: Pat Rafferty

On March 7, 2013 Stockton's Hospitality Society took a trip to Atlantic City's Melting Pot as one of their "dinearound" events they partake in throughout each semester. Twenty-nine students, as well as Dr. Michael Scales, participated in the fondue-style dining experience that the Melting Pot offers. The three course menu included cheese dipping appetizers, a shrimp, chicken, and mushroom entree, as well as a pleasant dessert course which included brownies, cheesecake, strawberries, and marshmallows that were dipped in chocolate based sauces. Overall, the experience was an excellent one that allowed students to experience a unique type of dining atmosphere. The Melting Pot offers an upscale ambiance while emphasizing the social interaction between those dining together.

A special thanks to the Hospitality Society officers, Katelyn Causey (President), Pat Rafferty (Vice President), Beth Briant (Secretary), and Jess DiFazio (Treasurer) for organizing the event.

Eta Sigma Delta

By: Alex Djokovich

On the morning of April 22, 2013, 34 students and one honorary member were inducted into Eta Sigma Delta (ESD), the International Hospitality Management Society. ESD has over 90 active chapters throughout the world and it is administered through the Council on Hotel, Restaurant, and Institutional Education (CHRIE). After introductory speeches from both Dr. Donna Albano and Dr. Joseph Lema, the faculty advisors of Eta Sigma Delta, the students and attendees heard from the honorary inductee, Dr. Israel Posner. Dr. Israel Posner, is Stockton's own Executive Director of the Lloyd D. Levenson Institute of Gaming, Hospitality, and Tourism. Dr. Posner shared an inspiring speech with helpful advice for the new inductees, followed by a speech from Alexandra Djokovich, ESD Chapter President. Ms. Djokovich's speech offered students and attendees the benefits of the Hospitality and Tourism Program at Stockton and participation in ESD. Each student was presented with a cord, pin, and certificate by Ms. Djokovich followed by students pledging an oath during a candle lighting ceremony, to uphold the values of ESD including excellence, leadership, creativity, ethics and service. These new ESD members were then officially part of the ESD honor society for the dedication of students and professionals in hospitality and tourism to the pursuit of academic, professional, and personal excellence. Students participated in community service activities organized by the ESD Chapter President to fulfill the service component of ESD. Beginning in February, 2013, students volunteered their time and talents with Campus Kitchen located at the Atlantic City High School. This service project is part of a national initiative to address one of the most pressing issues in today's society, hunger. A number of students also contributed to the 2013 Governor's Conference on Tourism held at the Golden Nugget Casino in Atlantic City. The formal ESD induction ceremony concluded with close to 100 guests in attendance that was followed with a social mixer while enjoying catered food and beverages.

Right: While on a tour of Steel Pier, adventurous Intro to Hospitality students had the opportunity to ride the "Sling Shot", a bungee style thrill ride.

Stockton Hospitality & Tourism Students Go Ivy League

By: Kristen Egbert

Four HTMS students took a trip to Cornell University in fall 2012 and stayed at the university's Statler Hotel. This hotel is completely run by students in their Hotel Administration program. "This was a wonderful experience to see how they integrated their academic classes with real life experiences it was especially intriguing to me as I am an employee at the Stockton Seaview Hotel & Golf Club. The practices that Cornell uses, is something that I hope we can bring into the Seaview," says graduating senior Kristen Egbert. Since the college signed the agreement with Cornell University, two Cornell students spent the fall semester at Stockton while living at the Seaview Resort. During the visit, Andy Dolce the founder of Dolce Management, the management company at the Seaview, spoke to the students. Mr. Dolce has a great interest in helping Stockton utilize the Seaview Resort to integrate some of the practices that Cornell uses for its students in the Statler Hotel. Egbert added, "after talking to some of their students, they have so much knowledge and experience that will set them above another graduate when applying for jobs. This is a great opportunity for us to expand the curriculum in the Hospitality and Tourism Management Program at Stockton."

2013 Host Awards

On May, 8, 2013, The Atlantic City Convention & Visitors Authority (ACCVA) recognized 27 individuals in the hospitality field during the annual Host Awards. The Host Awards honor outstanding customer service by employees in the tourism, hospitality and retail industries in the Atlantic City area. Jeff Vasser, the President of the ACCVA, presented each winner with a prize package. The packages included a lighthouse lapel pin representing them as beacons of hospitality, a $200 gift certificate for the Rocky Mountain Chocolate Factory, and a complimentary dinner for two in one of Atlantic City's finest restaurants. In presenting the awards, Vasser noted, "Tonight's Host Award nominees represent the best of the best out of the thousands of people who work in Atlantic City, and we thank each of you for your hard work and dedication. The experience we give our visitors is a large part of making Atlantic City a 'must do' destination, and you are leading the way." There were two Stockton HTMS Alumni who received awards. Best Retail Sales Award was presented to 2011 alumni Alvin Pasagui, who is currently working at Borgata/Water Club. Best Reservationist Award was presented to 2012 alumni, Lauren Finneran. Lauren is currently employed at Marriott's Fairway Villas. Also at the event, the ACCVA Foundation and the Greater Atlantic City Concierge Association awarded scholarships to students pursuing degrees in the hospitality industry. We are pleased (and proud!) to announce 10 Stockton students were awarded scholarships:
