Galloway Township, NJ – The Stockton College Education Center will offer a series of one-day professional development courses for K-12 educators this February through May. The first class is on February 15, 2013.

The Stockton College Education Center is in the new addition to the Sam Azeez Museum of Woodbine Heritage of Stockton College, located at 610 Washington Avenue in Woodbine.

The courses are particularly convenient for teachers in Cape May, Cumberland and Atlantic County school districts.

Patricia Weeks, director of the Southern Regional Institute and Educational Technology Training Center (SRI & ETTC) located in Galloway, said, “We are excited to extend our reach by offering professional development focused on writing, technology, social media and intervention training in a new state-of-the-art facility within the Azeez Museum. The class offerings are determined by teachers’ needs as well as the instructional strategies required by the new common core standards.”

Participants are asked to bring their own device (BYOD) for certain courses. The courses being offered are as follows:

Writing with SPICE, Grades 3-5

Friday, February 15, 9:00 am to 3:00 pm
