Galloway Township, NJ – The Masters of Instructional Technology program in the School of Education at The Richard Stockton College of New Jersey and TeachMeet NJ will be hosting an educational technology “unconference” on Thursday, Aug. 22 from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Registration begins at 7 a.m.

Unconference is a term to describe a new generation of conferences that are more participant-driven and affordable than traditional conferences. The TeachMeet NJ unconference is free and intended for K-12 administrators, teachers, IT staff and anyone in education who has an interest in technology.

Pre-registration is full, but walk-ins are welcome. Attendees who have a web 2.0 or tech tool they would like to share can sign up to be a presenter on TeachMeet NJ's Web site.

The fast-paced 20-minute sessions will be presented by professors and staff of Stockton College as well as area teachers and instructional technology specialists. Free Wi-Fi will be available. Thousands of dollars in door prizes will be given out, including classroom response clickers, software, and other technology tools.
