

Stockton Center on Successful Aging Presents Workshop at Noyes Museum of Art On Weaving Seats for Stools

For Immediate Release

Wednesday, May 15, 2013

Contact: Maryjane Briant
Interim Director of News & Media Relations
Galloway Township, NJ 08205
Maryjane.Briant@stockton.edu
(609) 652-4593

Galloway, NJ – The Stockton Center on Successful Aging (SCOSA) presents a craft workshop for seniors on Saturday, June 1, 2013 at the Noyes Museum of Art of the Richard Stockton College of New Jersey. It runs from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at the Museum, 733 Lilly Lake Road, just off Route 9 in the Oceanville section of Galloway.

Participants at the workshop will learn how to weave a seat for a solid oak unfinished footstool. The workshop will be lead by Niki Giberson, owner and operator of Swan Bay Farm in Port Republic. The event itself is free, with a $50 charge for materials. Participants will receive all the materials and instruction necessary to make the woven seat for the footstool frame.

For more information, visit the Noyes Museum of Art, call 609-652-8848, or email Jillian at jillioan@noyesmuseum.org to register. For updates and further information on SCOSA programs, call 609-626-3591.

#