EPA Seeks Local Partners to Enhance Environmental Education

GrantWeek by Graeff, Frank 1-22-18

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is soliciting applications for the 2018 Environmental Education (EE) Local Grant Program. Approximately $3 million will be spread out between EPA's 10 regions to promote increased environmental and conservation literacy and encourage behavior that will benefit the environment in local communities. Each region is expected to award three to four grants this cycle, meaning applicants would only be competing against other local entities for multiple chances at funding. EPA does require cost-sharing and exactly 25 percent of the total award amount must go to subgrantees. Applications are due by March 15, 2018.

Information about the 2018 competition can be found here.

BUDS Workshop

The Office of Research and Sponsored Programs, along with Administration and Finance, hosted a BUDS Workshop on January 16th highlighting both External and Internal Grant budget and operations.

The featured Power Point Presentations are provided as a reference and recap of the meeting.

Thank you to all who presented and attended the Workshop. Any questions can be directed to the ORSP at extension 4844 or email grants@stockton.edu.
